

Tired of only seeing
this side of your kids?

Turn Off TV—Turn On Life!

Consider this: The average American child will witness 200,000 acts of violence on television by the age of 18, according to KidsHealth.org. They'll also become accustomed to seeing risky behavior and be exposed to countless commercials.

Why not trade screen time for family time? There's no better way to gain precious hours with your family than by turning off your television set! By playing active games, walking, or just talking, you'll help your child clear their mind and even avoid obesity.

Visit PacificSource.com to learn more

As a PacificSource member, you can access CaféWell, an online health engagement portal. To get started, go to PacificSource.com, log into InTouch, and then click on the CaféWell button.

