

Support for your mental and behavioral health

Peer support providers

There are four different types of peer support workers. Each one offers hope and support in your journey. They offer support for the same or similar conditions that they are managing for themselves.

Peer Support Specialists are recovering from drug or alcohol addiction or a mental health condition. They support others who are experiencing similar challenges.

Peer Wellness Specialists are recovering from drug or alcohol addiction or a mental health condition. They also have experience managing a physical health condition, such as diabetes, heart disease, or problems with their hearing or vision. They support others who are recovering from a drug or alcohol addiction and a physical health condition.

Family Support Specialists have parented a child who experienced the foster care system, houselessness, drug or alcohol addiction, mental health conditions, learning disabilities, or other challenges. They help you care for your child's complex needs.

Youth Support Specialists are age 33 or younger. They may have experienced the foster care system, houselessness, drug or alcohol addiction, mental health conditions, learning disabilities, or other challenges, and they offer guidance to those who have. They provide youth-to-youth peer support.

We encourage you to reach out with questions about peer support specialists. Call us at 888-970-2507, TTY: 711.
